About Testing United

Testing United is a conference aimed at all levels of testers, test leads, test managers, test consultants and IT employees that come in a daily contact with the testing teams. The conference unites experts from the extended Central Europe region, and sharing of knowledge by periodically rotating the venue between Bratislava, Prague and Vienna.

Vienna is this year's host city and will welcome participants on 7 and 8 November 2019. The conference will have two tracks, one aimed at the general testers' public, second track focused on topics for test managers and other IT lead roles that cooperate with testing teams.

An optional social event will be held in the evening on 7 November in a yet-to-be-announced venue.

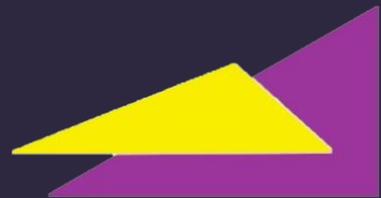

This year's theme and scope

The main theme of this year's conference is "Borders between industries are diminishing. How does it impact testing?" with focus on new testing challenges and opportunities for software testing and testers of all levels: from new skill requirements on junior testers to challenges facing test managers and consultants.

We believe it is important to allow our speakers as much freedom as possible in choosing their topics while focusing on a common conference goal. This year's topics will include insights into how different industries affect each other and how the testing outgrown 'old pools' and requires consideration of different industries and even biological and ethical impact. We believe that our speakers will provide testers with a new look on their current and future work.

Expected 600 visitors will attend two tracks, for testing and test management, running on both days, with over 30 experts from the industry introducing topics regarding changes in testing world.
